You can do everything in Photoshop Elements. However, it is limited to creating and editing. You can create new documents, edit existing ones, manipulate photos, and more. In this tutorial, I'll show you how to edit a photo using Photoshop Elements. Before we start, we should know the basics about Photoshop Elements. Let's start with a simple tutorial. Creating Document with Photoshop Elements Photoshop Elements comes with an all-new document mode. It works as Photoshop does: Create a new document Start editing Save the changes With this new document mode, you can do everything you would normally do in Photoshop. However, you will have the ability to work with a new document. In this tutorial, we will create a new document. First, open a new document. Then go to File > New. Select Photoshop Document. Next, name your document. Finally, click on Save. I'll go further into this new document mode in a later part of this tutorial. For now, let's focus on editing. How to Edit an Image with Photoshop Elements You can edit an image in 3 different ways: Elements options Layers options Channels options You can choose to edit the image with either the channels or layers options. We will learn about both of these modes in the next sections. I'll also go over the differences in the tools included in the options. Step 1: Open Image Open the image you want to edit using the Select by Color tool. Step 2: Select Background Select the Background layer and press Delete. Step 3: Select and Edit Layers Select all the layers in the image by pressing Ctrl+A. Start selecting layers by clicking on them once and then holding the Ctrl key and clicking on the layers again. Press Del to delete the layers. Step 4: Adjust Layers and Apply Changes Adjust the layers by changing their settings. Press Ctrl+D to deselect. Press Ctrl+I to invert the selection. In the next section, I'll teach you how to do the same steps in Elements' layers and channels modes. Elements' modes: Layers mode and Channels mode Like most other photo editing software, Photoshop Elements has 2 different modes: layers and channels. 05a79cecff

Q: Constructing a new list where all occurrences of a list are removed from the new list I have a list of floats, that occasionally contains NaN. I want to return a new list where any NaN values are removed, and then the list is sorted. I have tried to solve this using a list comprehension, but have been unsuccessful. A: you need to replace the NaN values in the list using the fillna method `df[df.fillna(df['colname'])]` or `df[df.colname.isna()]=df['colname']` Example: `lst=[[1,2,3,4,5],[6,NaN,7,8,9],[3.1,4.1,5.1,6.1,7.1]]` `df=[i.fillna(i[i.colname.isna()]) for i in lst]` #The result is `[1.0,2.0,3.0,4.0,5.0,7.0,8.0,9.0,3.1,4.1,5.1,6.1,7.1]` In the same way, you can use the sort method with the list comprehension as `[i.sort() for i in lst]` For more than one column `lst=[[1,2,3,4,5],[6,NaN,7,8,9],[3.1,4.1,5.1,6.1,7.1,NaN,9.1]]` `df=[i.fillna(i[i.col1.isna()]).sort() for i in lst]` `print(df)` #Output: `[1.0, 2.0, 3.0, 4.0, 5.0, 7.0, 8.0, 9.0, 3.1, 4.1, 5.1, 6.1, 7.1, 9.1]` A: You can use filter and sort methods of `numpy.array` In [134]: `from numpy import array` In [135]: `x = array([1,2,3,4,5])`
