Our latest sales figures, up through the first half of 2013, show that the tire market has become far more globalized, and the pace of change accelerates every year.

In January 2013, Tesco announced that it was buying a majority share of BABA, a major German tire manufacturer, to secure a larger share of the German tire market and also to pursue growth in the global market. In December 2012, Michelin began selling tires directly in China, and Axle & Tire Group, a large European tire manufacturer, announced plans for an $800 million capital investment. In a global economy, cost-competitive and innovative tires have become more valuable, not less valuable.
