In Atomorf's world there is no technology except for nuclear power. You will have to collect plutonium to make more nuclear power plants and send the reactors to other levels. In the radioactive levels there are different mutated plants that will harm you. You have a limited amount of bullets to battle the plants. The timer can limit the level time limit, but with a limited number of bullets. You can also add help with a bomb and shot to the level that will help you defeat the mutated plants. How to play: Pick a level and enter. Every level has a timer Press START and START again to unlock the next level If you are afraid of very hot and sharp objects, use a bomb to destroy the mutated plants. good rate going on this game. In general, I think it's one of the best sidescroller platformers, and with the addition of the enemies and the amount of time you have to try and play it, it's easy to make levels with a lot of time limits. I have a really hard time with bullet count in timed levels because I don't know how I'm going to get to the time limit if I don't do perfect on the environment. What helps is that I can spawn with guns or bombs, and even better for a guy like me is that I can spawn multiple players that I can control, and I can even command them to change classes. However, this game has some bugs that I ran into more than once. I had problems with the players not spawning where I spawned them and it taking five minutes to start spawning the right characters. Sometimes when you finish a level, your players move a little slower than you would like. This also makes the game feel a bit slow. Unfortunately, the levels are pretty short and mostly to not extend the game, and also mostly to make them easier in general. The music is fine, but in general, you really have no idea who did the music or what it was, and it didn't really fit the theme of the levels. Some of the pipes to get the reactor are moved so you have to find a different way to get it. This isn't a real problem because you can just spawn with a bomb and blow up the reactor. With very high level patients, you can't really escape, either. I
