Is Raul really a cock-boy?" It was a strange thing, but it was true. He was a cock-boy. Nowadays he earns his living and survives because he also sells his cock as an alternative sexual service. Usually he took one or two girls to the local professional brothel. Raul was a good looking guy, 31, he had a big dick, it was 7 inches long and 3 inches wide. His balls were also bigger, they weighed more than a hundred grams. His cock was very well kept. He used to pay special attention to it. It was always well groomed and cleaned with special care. Raul was also an expert at sucking himself and he could do that very well indeed. He was a great cock-sucker and this of course came in very handy when he was also a professional cock-boy. In the brothel he had to use these natural assets to find a match. He had to make himself attractive to the clients of the brothel by using his skills in the bedroom. He was a

I want to create a variable that contains a list of certain type, the items of the list should be visible in the designer. Also, I want to be able to show the items of that variable in a ListView. The reason for this is that I want to do the following: 1. Declare a variable that contains a List of the type I want, like this: List myList = new List(); 2. Create a ListView and set its ItemsSource property to myList variable, like this: ListView myListView = new ListView(); myListView.ItemsSource = my
