codec psd full psd codec fullManioc (tribe) The manioc tribe is a sub-tribe of the Manco Cápac (Vasconcelos) branch of the Tupi–Guarani languages, and is part of the Tupi languages. It is a sub-tribe of the Tupi language family and consists of the Tupi–Guarani languages. The Manioc (sometimes spelled Minic) are regarded as one of the most primitive Tupi-language groups, based on their morphology and lexicon. They occupy a vast geographic area in the Amazon Basin, and their speech differs from that of neighboring groups, who speak Tupi languages. Languages The Manioc, or Minic, are the only Tupi language group that are native speakers of a language that are unrelated to any of the Tupi–Guarani languages, and are native speakers of the language Minic. This is due to the history of the group, as they were pushed out of the Amazon by other neighboring groups who spoke Tupi languages. The manioc languages are: Manioc, spoken in the states of Acre, Amazonas, Rondônia, Mato Grosso, and Pará, in the Amazon Basin Moxó, spoken in the state of Roraima, in the eastern Amazon Basin See also List of Brazilian indigenous languages References Category:Maniocan languages Category:Tupian languages Category:Indigenous languages of the South American NorthwestPostadolescents in an inner-city high school: A qualitative analysis of adolescent friendships. The purpose of this study was to qualitatively describe the friendships of adolescents enrolled in an inner-city public high school and to identify factors that influence the strength and quality of friendships of these adolescents. This study used a qualitative methodology, comprised of five focus groups, to understand the friendship lives of postadolescents in a school in an urban setting. These focus groups followed the thematic analysis guidelines of Braun and Clarke. The results of this study suggest that adolescents in this school have strong friendships with their classmates in the school but have some difficulties with peers beyond the school boundaries. Friendships were most often characterized as having a family-like quality. Friendships were primarily characterized as being of one's own choosing. The influence of family and culture had a direct
