a satellite of the William A. Hennessey Airfield, which was the main Hennessey Air Base. History Early years The base was established in 1942 and was used for transport flights and radio navigation aids, training and liaison flights with the Dutch. It also was a transport base for transport planes in Dutch Borneo. Aeronautical engineers were stationed in the airfield and were used to teach mechanical training courses of the Strategic Air Command. It was chosen as the main training base of the United States Air Force of the United States Army Air Forces in the Dutch East Indies from 1947 to 1958. However, due to the increase in insurgency, flight operations and training were cancelled and the base was closed in the late 1950s.
