Narvas is a pre-apocalyptic post-cyberpunk RPG set in a city that was destroyed in a catastrophic EMP blast over 10 years ago. A series of Resonance accidents have brought many forgotten horrors to the surface. Players are free to take any path, but every character begins the game with a specific goal, that must be completed in order to access the next arc of the story. Players can begin from ground zero, or jump straight in at the end of The Dark Years. The key elements of the Narvas universe are its world-building and backstory. The game world has multiple races - human, wolf-like rogues, and what appears to be a hybrid of a human and talukhi, called the Narvas. The Narvas are the most advanced of these races. They are not quite human, but not quite other, either. At war with each other and the various factions fighting against them, the Narvas have been weakened, but they still retain the knowledge and technology that made them powerful in the past. Narvas have achieved some degree of unity - they are not engaged in constantly fighting each other. All of this is undermined by the recent series of Resonance accidents, which have damaged the world even more. The background story of Narvas is just as important as the world. The human factions have seen the narvas as beings just like them, and have exploited them to our own ends. Through good and evil, Humanity has fallen and the universal consciousness has become a sentient being, known only as The King. The Dark Years: The Dark Years takes place 10 years after the EMP, during which the world has fallen into chaos. Events have unfolded in different regions in different ways, and people are no longer able to control the world around them. Some are interested in rebuilding, while others wish to end the world. Narvas itself, following the recent Resonance events, has declared independence. They have been granted a degree of self-governance, which includes the right to declare war on any of the other factions. One faction, however, has taken these events as an opportunity to enslave the narvas under their control. NMS: Nicholas Montfort: a bounty hunter who grew up among the ashines. The last of his kind, he now works with The Kuruptivor. George Nass: also a bounty hunter, he lives in the ruins of the city of Olympia, and is a friend of Nassa.

Any database you would want to use For making an actual game or software, no matter what application you are making whether for desktop, console or mobile, you will always require the use of a database. Now there are a lot of databases available to you and you will have to decide which one you feel comfortable using when you are making a game or software for a specific platform. In general most of the people use SQL databases to make their games. Some of the best database applications are Microsoft SQL Server, PostgreSQL, MySQL and Oracle. So you will most
