The systems that powered this technology have been improved to offer even more accurate control and handling of players. For example, "Snap Attacking" allows players to more precisely time their attack with their pass for the most effective shot, and "Shooting" gives players even more control over the type of pass and shot they want to use, and what pass they want to use it on. "Passing" now allows players more precise control of their receivers as they pass. This feature works across all types of passes, from those played as a traditional free-kick or kick-pass, to long balls, to passes to feet, and quick through-balls. Here's a look at what's new in FIFA 22: New "Snap Attacking" Feature This allows players to time a pass or shot with their pass for even greater control. This was a feature that was already available in FIFA 15 but has been overhauled in FIFA 22, and the addition of Precision passing for precise passes allows you to be more creative on the pitch. As a result, players have even more control over the type of pass or shot they want to make. As an example, take a shot to a striker: you can now choose to release it close to their foot, so they have a better chance of scoring, or you can release it in the air, so that you can have more control over where it goes. New "Precision Passing" Feature This allows players to more precisely control passes to feet, quick through-balls and through-the-ball passes. It also lets players simulate throws and dribbles more realistically using the ball's movement in 3D. If you're playing in a game with the Icons Technology enabled, the Icons will be represented on the pitch with an animation and can be seen from all angles to help you see where your teammates and opponents are. Deeper Tactical AI Players will now take the time to move and position themselves strategically if they are given the ball. Their general movement has been improved to be more natural - they will look for chances to get the ball, work in their teammates to create and protect space, and look to set up plays. A new "Strategic AI" will allow the player to think more tactically about where they will pass and how the rest of the team needs

Place multiple Special cards (which have positive effects only if they are all used together) and boost the overall impact of the Special. For example, a move to form the perfect team combination around a Special card means that the Special will appear more often. (Note: you can buy the new Skill cards again for 19 coins via the Store but they are not included with the Season Ticket.)
- New ball physics. (Note: please turn ball physics on in-game via the Option menu).
