Introduction Crococrypt is a powerful application designed to protect all your files. It does not require installation and allows you to encrypt and decrypt files in a single click. The program has many useful features, such as file shredding and self-destruction, and effectively protects your files, even if you are connected to a network. This is because the whole operation is performed in the background by the program and does not interrupt the operation of your operating system. The files are processed in an automatic manner, so once you start the program, it is done. This is something which cannot be said for other applications. Useful features If you are trying to protect the contents of any folder on your drive, Portable Crococrypt is the right application for you. The files are encrypted at a folder level so you do not have to worry about the filenames, extensions or other details. This includes file and folder sizes, dates, access, attributes and so on. Since the entire process is automated, no user is affected, and the only way to gain access to the files is with the password that you provide. To facilitate this, the program has a very user-friendly interface, and the process is very simple. When the files are decrypted, you can easily work with them from any local device. The operation is very intuitive, and easy for any user to understand. Additional features Apart from the valuable features of encryption and decryption, this software has a highly-effective shredding mechanism, and once you start it, you can shred all the files or folders that you select to be destroyed. The function is very effective because it does not just use the built-in Windows function to shred files, but uses an alternative application in order to perform a more intelligent job. Thus, your important files are not just destroyed by Windows, but also by a third-party application, which means that not only are they protected, but also remain safely inaccessible by all methods of retrieval. Convenient options The program can be operated easily from a USB drive, and once it is started, you can create the containers in any location, even if you are working remotely. You can even synchronize your data from any location with a remote server. The interface itself, as mentioned,
