She told Variety, "Apple's purpose in life is to make our lives better. And it is our job as parents to support her goals, no matter how much work it may be. This video that she made happens to be about the things that she wants to be able to do with her life. She is young, and her ideas on fashion and self-expression are not necessarily those that I approve of. ... But I do think that her experience in life has made her capable of making her own decisions about what she feels is right for her and for her life." As for the critics, she said, "It's not that she has an answer for everything. She's a young person, and she just wants to do what she wants to do, and she's comfortable with that. It might not be the way I do things, but she is an empowered young lady who knows what she wants out of life and is happy to take that journey." Gwenyth Paltrow and Apple have had a rocky relationship since 2007, when Apple was a teenager and her then-manager Gail Oberman sued her in the name of Chinese cosplay for copyright infringement. The lawsuit was eventually settled. Paltrow said, "I love her and she is a good friend of mine. We're on very good terms now. She is a great person." — By Chuck SudoThe ethics of medicine in an ethnocultural context.
