Papers;.The present invention relates to the field of the combobulation of flowing, mixed materials, as well as to the selective separation of this mixture, comprising solid particles of any size, and mainly particles of different size, into individual fractions of solids. More specifically, the invention relates to a process and apparatus for creating the above-mentioned mixed materials, and most particularly for making a stream of two or more types of solid particles

suitable for combobulation by a hydrocyclone.

Combobulation is a
process for creating a mixed stream of solid particles, which is suitable, when it is required, for processing in a hydrocyclone. The stream resulting
from this process
and presenting the properties required for the hydrocyclone are generally composed of solid particles of two or more different sizes.

Combobulation is, for example, used for obtaining the "or" condition from a mixture of coal and refuse, or coal and coke fines, in order to feed such a mixture to a hydrocyclone, which allows separating the solid particles in accordance with their size.

Combobulation is also used for obtaining a mixed stream from two fractions of solid particles, such as the "or" condition of coal and water and coke and water, which 6d1f23a050
