When in a showcase scene, you will want to have the scene in texture view mode. This is because it will allow you to see the models at the correct size and dimensions, making it easier to get the right look. In order to do this, switch to texture view mode by pressing F, or by selecting it in the list of window modes under Window Type, or you can just toggle it by pressing F8 or selecting the view mode in the list of window types under window view. You can also just press LMB and then press the F8 button to toggle it on and off. The Showcase view can also be enabled in the Showcase Configure window within the ProBuilder Settings menu. This is our official blog for our developers. This blog will be updated with news and releases for our program. All articles on this blog will include links to all relevant blog posts on the Probuilder blog. You should be able to find anything that you are looking for here! Probuilder is a great way to start building your own content if you arent confident with using Blender or other modelling programs. Its super easy to dive into once you locate it in your Package Manager. You also need to make sure you search Packages: Unity Registry for it to come up. Then import! * Download free characters, if you dont already have them- If youre worried about spending all that time creating and rigging your own character and then not being able to animate it properly... you can just as easily download a range of free characters from the website itself. They have soldiers, zombies, knights, mutants and more! Just scroll through, pick a character you like, hit download and youll be ready to test them out. 5ec8ef588b
