Waaris Shah Ishq Da Waaris Video 720p Hd

waris shah in his poem asked, how can a flower become garland? let it be garlanded or, how can a wreath be made for it? it is heer then who garlands lord and wears the crown of love. even then she staked her life for her choice, and became the centre of the epic, heer ranjha. shahs heer stands for women and all women who live by the line heer da nawan banayye ji. shah did not create a myth or write a historical romance. he, rather, wrote a timeless tale, which crosses the boundaries of all religions, and connects the soul with the almighty. it has been more than 250 years that shahs heer, a young muslim woman from undivided punjab and the protagonist of the classic romance saga, stood and died for her choice her ishq with ranjha. even today, the text of 630 stanzas written by shah in 1766, is relevant for women. giving a new meaning and life to shahs heer is sumail singh sidhu (45), a bathinda-based historian, who is researching heer and conducting workshops across the country on the theme ishq heer da nawan banayye ji (lets give a new dimension and meaning to hears ishq). he is on the mission to connect youth with shahs heer. so what can the average punjabi youth learn from shahs heer, the greatest of secular poets, who made this tragic story of revolt against a bigotry order dear to the heart of every punjabi? nain sukh, who lives in lahore, says, that we must strive to be tolerant, respect others and draw inspiration from shahs heer for the fair and peaceful co-existence of punjabis, of all religions and languages, the great punjabi language is a symbol of love. 5ec8ef588b
