Is it possible to override some or all of the existing CSS in the WYSIWYG editing interface? I'd like to override a WYSIWYG styled DIV class to add a specific class, something like:wysiwyg p {... } Here's a link to the setting I need to change. The example shows me that I can change the selected text, but I can't seem to change the classes for existing elements. I can create a new style in the WYSIWYG editor interface, but the problem is that this new style is not added automatically in the generated HTML, and I'd like to have a different CSS class for the paragraph instead of the selection. A: I figured out that the problem wasn't in the extension itself, but with a custom extension I needed to get the headings and paragraphs style options from. The generic CSS applied at the page/node level can be overridden by creating a new style sheet. If you don't want the default.css of the style-editor-extension being applied, you can use CSS Overrides for the page or node you wish to override. Interleukin-1 beta and interleukin-2 mRNA levels in T cell-deficient human peripheral blood mononuclear cells are significantly increased when stimulated with concanavalin A, phytohemagglutinin, or Staphylococcus aureus Cowan I strain. In a recent study we identified a defect in T cell-regulated synthesis of cytokines in immune-deficient SMA+ patients [P. H. Collins et al., Proc. Natl. Acad. Sci. USA, 87, 5145 (1990)].
